Purpose

The purpose of this policy is to ensure that Susan's Farm understands its responsibility towards preventing misuse and/or the ill-treatment of animals in accordance with the Animal Welfare Act 2006. It outlines how Susan's Farm will meet the five basic animal welfare needs of:

1. Freedom from thirst, hunger and malnutrition
2. Freedom from discomfort
3. Freedom from pain, injury or disease
4. Freedom to express normal behaviour
5. Freedom from fear and distress.

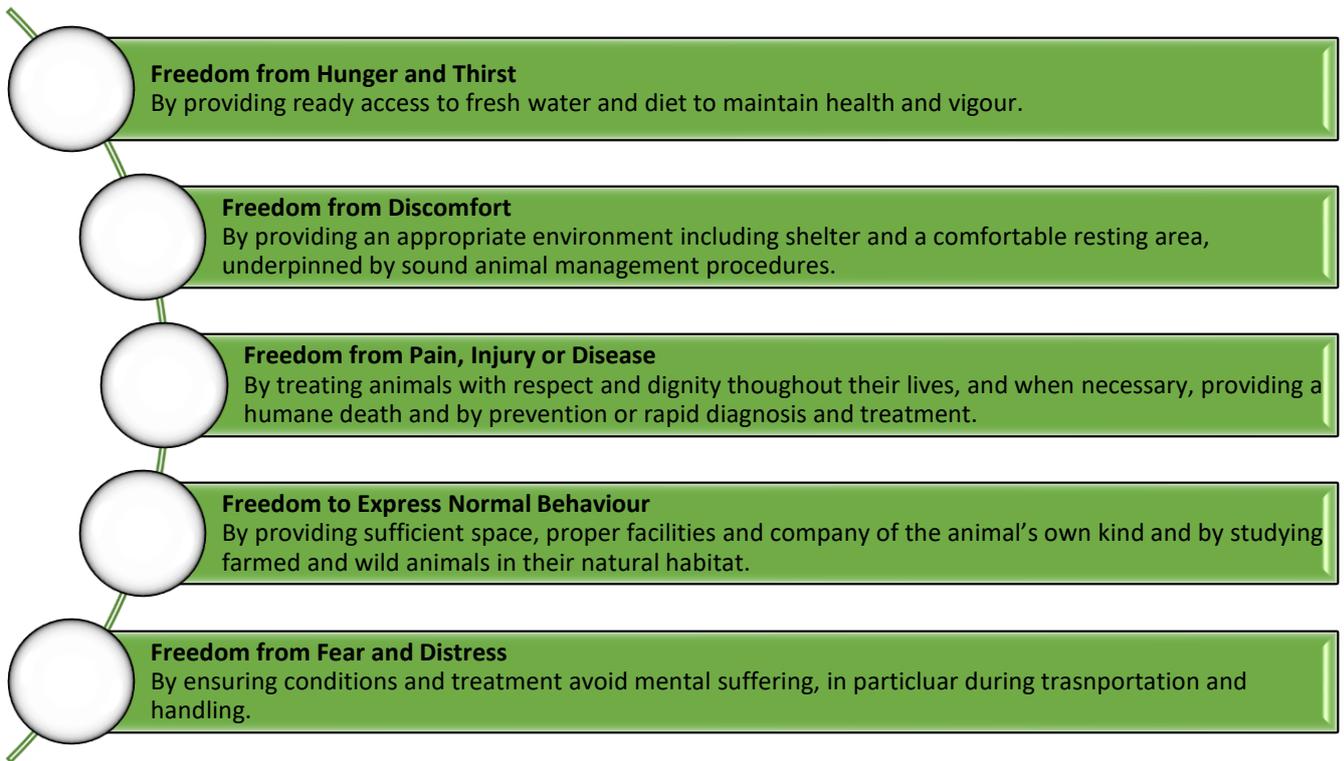

Scope

All staff, volunteers, beneficiaries or other associated personnel who undertake activities with animals on behalf of Susan's Farm.

Policy Statement

The Animal Welfare Act requires that anyone responsible for an animal has a legal duty to meet the five basic welfare needs described above. Good animal husbandry also helps to reduce the likelihood of people contracting infections that can be passed from animals (zoonoses).

To achieve our responsibilities to animal welfare we meet the five basic welfare needs as follows:

In acknowledging these freedoms, Susan's Farm will:

- Ensure we have a caring and responsible planning and management system to manage our herd, flocks and gaggle.
- Ensure we work collaboratively with veterinary surgeons to prevent, monitor and respond to existing or emerging farm animal welfare concerns.
- Ensure we have a skilled, knowledgeable and conscientious stockmanship, including a record and stock-keeping system.
- Ensure we use appropriate environmental and welfare design principles
- Ensure we provide up to date staff training regarding animal welfare and their environment.
- Ensure we educate those who use or visit our farm on our expectations for animal welfare and ensure that any interactions do not increase the stress levels or cause unnecessary disturbance to animals.
- Ensure that accommodation for animals is environmentally enriched and that attention is given to alleviating boredom (where appropriate).
- Ensure we use reputable establishments for humane slaughter.
